

WEEE & RoHS Directive

Vivid WEEE & RoHS Directive

The Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Directive (WEEE Directive) aims to minimise the impact of electrical and electronic goods on the environment, by increasing re-use and recycling and reducing the amount of WEEE going to landfill. The directive was agreed on 13 February 2003, along with the related Directive on Restrictions of the use of certain Hazardous Substances in electrical and electronic equipment (RoHS).

Vivid are working to comply with these new directives under the guidance of an officially registered compliance scheme. Vivid has submitted data to SEPA and has been issued with a WEEE registration number - WEE/KH0184TY.

WEEE

Vivid can confirm that;

- We have identified all of our products that fall within the directive.
- We have a dedicated focus group for the WEEE directive and RoHS legislation.
- We are working with an officially registered compliance scheme, Electrolink Recycling Limited and have been registered with SEPA (Scottish Environment Protection Agency) who have provided us with our WEEE registration number.
- We are working to comply with the WEEE product marking obligation by marking all newly manufactured products with the crossed out "wheelie bin" symbol. Products already in the distribution chain cannot be recalled and these unmarked products remain legally available for sale.

RoHS

The RoHS Directive stands for "the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment". This Directive bans the placing on the EU market of new electrical and electronic equipment containing more than agreed levels of lead, cadmium, mercury, hexavalent chromium, polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) and polybrominated diphenyl ether (PBDE) flame retardants.

Vivid are currently auditing all suppliers to ensure they comply with the RoHS directive and this information will be made available once the audit is complete.
